Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Sunday 23 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Sunny spells and a few showers on Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Sunny spells and showers this evening, the showers tending to die out towards midnight. Then dry overnight with some long clear periods and perhaps a few fog patches developing. Turning chilly with light winds. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Monday:
A bright morning and early afternoon with sunny spells and a few showers developing. Becoming cloudier later in the afternoon with some patchy light rain possible. Freshening northwesterly winds. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Sunny spells and a few showers through Tuesday and Wednesday with fresh northwesterly winds easing. Dry with sunny spells Thursday but cloud and patchy rain edging east in evening.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.